

OmniCert Honored in Two Categories at Rocky Mountain Oil & Gas Awards Despite Downturn, Cost Savings Recognized at Oil & Gas Awards in Denver

Denver, CO -- OmniCert, a web and mobile application company specializing in safety and compliance in technical industries, proved that offering an efficient and cost effective solution is worth considering at the 2016 Rocky Mountain Oil & Gas Awards in Denver, CO on March 23rd. OmniCert was named a finalist in two categories: Industry Supplier of the Year, one of the most competitive categories, and Excellence in Health And Safety – Products. The Awards bring in hundreds of representatives from Oil and Gas related companies from all over the country that service the Rocky Mountain Region. OmniCert is based in California, and is extremely thrilled to have mounted such interest across the country's regions.

On being nominated for such prestigious awards, OmniCert's CEO Vance Elmore said, "We've been working very hard on creating an innovative and simple solution that doesn't require tons of man hours and constant upkeep. By taking our user's feedback seriously, we've created a product that is being recognized by the industry. This is a huge step in the right direction. With the oil price in a constant state of volatility over the last year, it's been great to see how much money we can save companies and how we can mitigate safety and compliance issues in the field. It's a huge cost-saver and we are very proud about how far we've come. With our mobile apps launched, we expect to see even more explosive growth in the near future."

OmniCert is now a year old, beginning development in March 2015, and beta testing through the start of 2016. Now live and operating fully, growth has been rapid Based in Bakersfield, CA, they are within arms reach length to many of the nation's largest oil producers and service companies, not to mention the most stringent regulations in the Industry.

###

About OmniCert

Physical forms and training attendance sheets are outdated in a world dominated by smartphones and tablets. The process of renewing certifications and tracking attendance at safety meetings is neither efficient nor productive. OmniCert introduces a simple solution to this tedious, time-consuming and difficult task by allowing you to keep your employees accountable and up to date with ease.

CONTACT INFORMATION

Vance Elmore, OmniCert

661.900.3392

velmore@omnicert.com 